Description

A fine antique writing table by Soubrier. We bring to you this marvellous 19th century French writing table believed to be made around C1890 by the maker Soubrier, who are still in business to this day. This original table features its original brown blind tooled desktop leather which is framed by Kingwood parquetry veneer, complete with a cross banded edge. The table features a finely crafted dovetailed Oak lined drawer complete with its original brass dropper handles and brass double action lock with its original key and brass escutcheon. Inside the drawer are dowel drawer stoppers and the badge of 'Soubrier Ameublement 14, Rue de Reuilly Paris'. To all sides of the table are Ebony inlays to the underside edge and above the legs in a diamond shape. With ebony stringings the square tapering legs start from an ebony band and descend to their original brass cup feet. This fantastic table features its beautiful original rich colour and original French polished finish. This very useful writing table is ideal to be used as a sofa table, lamp table, in a hallway or as a desk as it has the perfect proportions. Laptops or tablets could even be stored inside of the draw...
