Description

This is a superb pair of antique George III demi-lune tea tables, circa 1810 in date. Each table is of beautiful flame mahogany with boxwood line inlay and satinwood crossbanding. They are elegantly raised on fluted square sectioned tapering legs. The back legs on each pull out to stabilise the table when it is open. The quality and attention to detail throughout the pair are second to none. Condition: In excellent condition having been beautifully cleaned and polished in our workshops, please see photos for confirmation.
