Description

Having spent a good deal of it's life at Crowe Hall, the Georgian Villa near Bath, the home until recently of Sir John Barrett, this stunning early 19th century mahogany bookcase is now in search of another appreciative owner. The domed top has an interesting cornice with inverted finial decoration while the glazing bars have a beautiful gothic tracery pattern, behind which are adjustable shelves. The secretaire section has twelve pigeon-holes and eight small drawers, each veneered in satinwood with ivory turned knobs and a green leathered writing surface. Below this there are two cross-banded and inlaid cupboard doors which open onto further useful storage with fixed shelving. Standing on arched and shaped feet, this bookcase is in superb condition with a beautiful mellow mahogany colour and is a rare form of the genre which will probably not come our way again. If you are interested in this item, it is wise to enquire straight away. Listed items are advertised elsewhere and are constantly being sold and withdrawn from the site. Dimensions: 46" width (117cm) 21.5" depth (55cm) 91" height (321cm)
