Description

Antique imperial topaz Georgian 18ct gold necklace. This is a fabulous antique late Georgian antique precious topaz 18k gold necklace set in a gold setting with a fancy link chain with a slide clasp it's in fine condition and is a rare example. Imperial Topaz, with its distinct peach, pink, orange or champagne hues, is the rarest topaz variety. The primary source is the Ouro Preto mines of Minas Gerais, Brazil. In fact Imperial Topaz was named in honour of the Russian monarchy who prized its luxurious golden-sherry hues. The necklace is 37.8cms long and set with eleven imperial topaz stones with a slide hidden clasp concealed by a topaz stone at the back of the neck. The necklace is set in high carat gold fancy link hammered Georgian early Victorian chain which is in very good antique condition.
