Description

Pair of late C19th George I period revival carved walnut and parcel-gilt console tables and mirrors. Highly decorative pair of carved gilt-wood based console tables of shaped outline with cross-banded walnut tops and cross-grained moulded sectional edges in the early C18th manner. The shapely gilded friezes and feather-carved supports having well-executed carved detail. The gilding having achieved a mellow, period style surface and patina. The pair of walnut and parcel-gilt framed mirrors with period-style slightly distressed atmospheric silvered plates. Elaborate carved gilt-wood ribbon-tied flower vase crestings and acanthus scroll mouldings to the 'broken arch' pediments and shaped frames. The walnut and gilt having a corresponding faded period-style patina and surface to the console tables. The outline of the base of the mirrors being of matching shape to the outline of the tables. The verso having convincingly-aged boards with apocryphal dates of 1714, initials 'W.L. London' and an armorial style crest or cypher carved into the distressed surface. Quality copies of an important pair of early C18th George I period wall-hanging console tables and mirrors in e...
