Description

Striking and quite rare is this 1930s Art Deco porcelain powder box with lustre finish which depicts a young girl sat on a wicker trunk holding an orange ball. Beautiful colouring and detailing. A rare design and highly sought after. She's in great condition with no damage or restoration. When you lift the lid it reveals a nice little storage area for all your dressing table trinkets. Originating from France and part of the half doll family this piece would make an ideal addition to any collection. Makers mark to the base which I can't quite make out. Free UK mainland delivery
