Description

For your consideration is this English made walnut cocktail occasional table dating to the 1930's. This table is a wonderful shape and glides effortlessly on it's casters. Either side of the table is a protruding half drum shaped pull down door which opens to reveal storage for bottles and glasses. Having one of these both sides of the table gives an awful lot of storage whilst taking up no room as the table works on it's own as a coffee/ occasional table. There is also a pull out drawer which can be used to house utensils, napkins or just magazines. The whole piece is in excellent showroom condition and ready to be delivered.
