

SA951297

A collection of Neolithic flake tools collected by D Woodhouse in the summer of 1943 & 1944

Price

Sold

Item Reference: SA951297

Date of manufacture: Before 1700

Description

This fascinating collection of over thirty flake tools from the Neolithic (10000 BC - 2200 BC) was found on June 3rd 1943 and August 4th 1944 by a D Woodhouse. Many of the flakes carry notation (initials and the date on which they were found). An accompanying label provides us with the collector's surname and the field in which the flakes were found - unfortunately, their handwriting at this point becomes harder to decipher, however, it could well be 'Turners field'. If you would like to read more about how these flake tools were made by Prehistoric man please follow this secure link to a page on the subject <https://www.britannica.com/technology/flake-tool>
Approximate measurement of the largest flake tool - 6cm high x 4cm wide

Seller Details

Culvertons

42 A West Street Dorking Surrey RH4 1BU United Kingdom

Tel: 0777 542 6867 or 01306 770212

International Tel: +44 777 542 6867 or +44 1306 770212

