Description

Late 18th century George III small size serpentine shaped mahogany sideboard. The sideboard has square tapering legs with spade feet. The sideboard has 4 drawers with the right hand side one being a double drawer, fitted for bottles which still retains most of its original lead lining inside including the water release tap. The drawers are all cross banded with kingwood with boxwood lines and have good old replacement round brass handles and original brass locks. The sideboard is a bold serpentine shape and is in very good clean condition. It is a very pleasing mellow, light mahogany colour. SIZE; 54" wide by 27 1/2" deep in the middle by 36" high CIRCA; 1795 - 1810
