Description

This is a good Victorian station clock or wall clock retailed by Reynolds & Son, of London in or around 1870. The clock has a fine quality chain driven fusee movement that has just been fully serviced by our horologist and is in excellent order keeping good time and winding with a key once a week. The circular painted dial has Roman numerals all in very good clear condition. This has its original pointers and comes with a winding key and original brass pendulum. The clock measures 37 cms in diameter. UK insured packing and delivery is £25.
