Description

A very beautiful Georgian corner display cabinet with single astragal glazed door with original hinges, escutcheon and a working (later but well fitted) lock and key. The blind fretwork carved frieze of Chinese Chippendale design beneath an ogee shaped cornice. . Complete and original, the cabinet is very heavy and retains its original oak backboards. . The cabinet was made to display porcelain and silver and has five well shaped fixed shelves each with plate groove to back and all in solid and usable condition. . It is quite unusual to find a full height display cabinet retaining its original glass and of attractive and fairly small proportions. A later pine batten has been attached to the top of the back boards on one side with brass brackets so that the cabinet can easily be secured to a wall. This can be removed if not required. . A lovely fine piece of early mahogany furniture in excellent condition for age. . . Dimensions are: . 76.5 inches tall, 29 inches wide and 20.25 inches if you measure each side. . From centre of the front to the back corner is 16 inches. . Height above each fixed shelf is: top – 11 inches, then all are 10 inches, with 11 inches between botto...
