Description

A rather neat Mahogany night stand that is around 200 years old but it is still in really tidy condition. Coming from a house in Alderley Edge it has clearly been well looked after retaining a nice tidy finish and good colour. This stand with the unusual tamped front boasts those classical Georgian simple lines and would great almost anywhere, it does not have to be a bedroom, it could take a lamp or would look superb with a large ornament or maybe a bust or bronze figure. Not expensive in this original good condition we think with what appears to be the correct handle. The back is polished too so it is not a necessity for it to go against a wall.
