Description

1 Fine Art Antique 19th Century Victorian English Oil Painting Edward Lloyd Of Ellesmere Horses Going To Market "On The Road" Travelling To Chester. Subject genre scene of a horse merchant trader taking his horses to sell in the market in Chester, he is wearing a thick fine country coat and travelling on an old dirt path road riding his brown horse and leading another lighter brown horse just behind him and further back with a beautiful white horse following behind. His location is travelling through the hillside path through Beeston Peckforton Hills Cheshire approaching a cross road at the top, with a sign right by him saying Chester which is to the right. With further horses and a rider in front of him in the distance, who are all travelling to Chester To the left are landscape views of hills covered with green grass the landscape, lower down to the right are some pretty flowers along the road side. Such an intriguing scene a great conversation piece to your guests. Signed by the known English Artist Edward Lloyd of Ellesmere. Circa 19th century dated 4th August 1874. Oil on canvas. Set in a fine original moulded floral gilt frame. Edward Lloyd (1818-1901) competent En...
