Description

This early 20th-century oil painting by Spanish artist José Genovés Llansol (1850-1930) depicts a seated woman from Valencia. Llansol sought to capture the sights, sounds and flamboyance of a City he adored. Rich tones dominate his sun-drenched depictions of villagers on dusty backstreets. While his still lifes are abundant with painterly energy. Here, we see a seated woman, dressed in traditional clothing, during a moment of quiet contemplation. Deep in thought, she's plaiting her hair with muscular hands that indicate labour. At first glance appearing calm but with a dormant fire smouldering under the surface. Signed and held within a 20th-century gilt frame. Medium: Oil on board Overall size: 16½" x 19" / 42cm x 48cm Year of creation: c. 1910 Condition: Craquelure but the paint is stable. Old repairs. Frame with some light wear. Artist's auction maximum: £2,435 José Genovés Llansol trained at the School of Fine Arts, Valencia and achieved various accolades.
