Description

We bring to you this outstanding condition Victorian Mahogany gallery top What Not believed to be made around C1860. This absolutely stunning What Not is in almost flawless original condition which we have enhanced by sympathetically cleaning and carefully waxing to a lovely deep sheen. This What Not is constructed from solid Mahogany incorporating a finely cut fretwork gallery top, joined with finely cut dovetails which are on show to the rear. The stand has the most sought after original colour with its original French polished finish where little to no fading is present and as a sign of its quality even the rear is beautifully polished. The What Not is constructed with 3 display shelves supported by the most beautiful opposing barley twists which all subtly descend in size to the bottom which is very unique. The lowest shelf features a finely constructed dovetailed drawer which is clean inside, completed with its original finely turned knobs. As a testament to the items quality the drawer fits and operates perfectly placed upside-down, which shows a truly square drawer and carcass. The Whatnot stands proudly on its 4 finely turned legs with its original collins bran...
