Description

Victorian cock fighting carved oak settle This Victorian carved oak settle was made circa 1875. It is very interesting as the 2 carved panels depict the now banned country sports of Cock fighting and bull baiting. The back with the lunette shaped top rail and the carved head surmounts, above the inset panels with the carved scenes and 2 carved foliate panels below. The lift-up lid on the seat opens to reveal a full open storage area. Imagine how much you can hide in here! The arms at each end have a carved mythical beast's head. Around the base are carved oak panels. It stands on a plinth. Imagine this interesting conversation piece in your home, not only is it practical it is also a fine piece. 120cms wide 47ins 56cms deep 22ins 135cms high 53ins All Measurements are approximate, whilst we take care in measuring there may at times be a very slight difference.
