Description

This is a fine quality antique English Victorian watercolour painting, of a woodland winter rural scene depicting working horses in the winter months, by Walter Henry Pigott, circa 1882, of large proportions, in a gold leaf mounted frame, in excellent condition. The painting depicts three horses dragging felled tree boughs from a wood, flanked by two men, into a nearby ploughed field, waiting to be winched onto a waiting horse cart. The Victorian painting has the skill to draw you in with its range of rustic / pastel colour hues and textures, depicting a quintessential English agricultural scene. It is signed and dated in the bottom right corner, framed in a later large mounted gilt frame, protected by glass, which is in excellent condition. This Victorian watercolour painting would look superb in a variety of rooms, including the hallway, living or dining room. As this is a large painting, it would fit well in a large room. This painting would certainly grace any home and is a great investment as it is an attractive and colourful piece. So don't miss out on your chance to own a lovely picture.
