Description

A framed Victorian print of the original wooden Byzantine Icon of the 14th Century, to be found suspended above the altar of the church of Saint Alphonso of Ligouri in Rome. Santa Maria De Perpetuo De Succurso (roughly translated as Saint Mary, Mother of perpetual succour or help), depicts the Virgin holding the infant Christ flanked by the Archangels Gabriel and Michael holding the implements of his future crucifixion - Saint Gabriel with three bar cross and nails, and Michael with the spear that pieced Christs side, and the sponge that held vinegar. This print is in an oval frame, and measures approximately 59cm tall and 48cm across. Please do not hesitate if I can provide any further information, or images. I offer free delivery to mainland UK, and am more than happy to help with quotes to ship abroad.
