Description

A Regency period, set of six, leather upholstered, mahogany, dining chairs, Circa 1810. These chairs constructed in high quality, heavy, well figured mahogany, feature a rope top rail and lower slat above and below a flame mahogany panel. Drop in seats covered in hand-dyed oxblood leather hide. Saber legs, fluted all the way through the side rails to the stiles, finishing in scrolled terminals. A high quality set of handsome chairs, beautifully presented with excellent upholstery. Frames with some minor marks and signs of use, but with very good colour, polish and patina, and in very good overall condition. Ready for use. Dimensions: These chairs measure approximately 83 cm (32.5") tall, 45.5 cm (18") wide, and 52 cm (20.5") deep. The seat height is approximately 46.5 cm (18.5"). Condition: Please see the pictures for details of the items condition. - These chairs are in a very good condition commensurate with their age, and are structurally sound and sturdy. There are some minor age related marks and blemishes on the frames. No loose joints or obvious signs of repair. Reupholstered copying the original seats, in colour and style. Very sturdy and ready for use. - As ...
