Description

This is a tall antique floor standing robe rail. An English, mahogany and brass rug stand or towel dryer, dating to the Edwardian period, circa 1910. Superb country house proportion with generous size for larger textiles. Displaying a desirable aged patina and in good order throughout. Select stocks present fine grain interest and deep russet hues. Skilfully carved ball finials stand atop block shoulders. Single, stout brass rail spanning above tapered baluster supports. Raised upon a wide pair of shaped trestle feet united by a deep stretcher rail. This is a generously sized antique floor standing robe rail with bold forms and useful throughout the house or institution. Solid joints and construction, delivered waxed, polished and ready for service.
