Description

Victorian circular marquetry centre table This Victorian walnut marquetry centre table was made circa 1875. The circular top with a deep cross-banding edged in sycamore. Inside the cross-banding are segmented sections of walnut running to the centre roundel of fine floral marquetry. The top sits on the solid walnut carved stem with the 3 walnut cabriole legs, that are deeply carved with leaves to the knees and scrolled toes, then the concealed castors under. The table tilts and can be displayed with the top up, this makes for a wonderful piece of art. A Victorian walnut marquetry centre table can be used for dining or as a centre table. Imagine this superb Victorian walnut circular marquetry table in your home and the pleasure it will give you. The stunning top and carved base give this table a real presence whether it is in an entrance hall or as an elegant dining table. 122cms diameter 48ins 74cms high 29 1/4ins All dimensions are approximate.
