Description

A superb example of a Victorian ottoman stool with a rising top concealing a generous storage space. This is central standing and is veneered and inlaid all the way round in kingwood, walnut, satinwood and a variety of other woods. There is a drawer at the base and it stands on its original turned feet and castors. The interior has been relined. The top has a lovely needlework covering which appears to be original, this shows a few signs of wear, see photographs, but it is generally in remarkably good condition. Sizes: 32"(82cms) wide, 25"(64cms) deep, 19"(48cms) high. Date circa 1870.
