Description

A large Old Sheffield Plated beer jug. Bearing no makers mark but is visibly seamed and dates to c1820-1860. As with many of these jugs it has possibly been converted from a tankard (the spout appears to be electroplated). It remains however, a highly impressive and useable object. Condition is very good overall with no dents. There are signs of copper bleed to the raised edges and slight faint plate wear to the spout. The interior is very clean. Weight approx 850g Height approx 18.5cm Height to top of finial approx 22cm Span approx 22.5cm Base diameter approx 12.5cm
