Description

Very Rare Museum quality Omega Constellation Day Date Chronometer with all original paperwork, deluxe Constellation box and an extract certificate from the Omega Museum Archives. The movement is the superb Omega in house calibre 751, chronometer rated with 24 jewels, the last of the great Omega movements. This is an amazing unrestored example of this iconic Omega. All of the edges are clean and sharp, it has never been polished or restored. The watch has an extremely rare original untouched dial with linen texture in a steel grey colour with gilt batons and dial accessories. You are unlikely to ever see another example. The bracelet is near perfect with all of the original links. The only work we have done on this watch is to fully service the movement and ultrasonically clean the case and bracelet. The only parts replaced were the back seal and the mainspring when the movement was serviced, even the glass is totally original. The watch comes with all of its original paperwork with the original Omega warranty paperwork, the original invoice and receipt from the premier jeweller Boodles and Dunthorne, and an extract certificate from the Omega Museum Archives.
