Description

Antique Single Fusee Mahogany Library Clock With Bevelled Glass Panels. This superb antique library clock has a Mahogany case with a fantastically rich colour and grain. The top of the case is then square with a bevelled glass viewing window to the top as well as a shaped moulding to the top edge. The body of the case is then square with a lovely bevelled glass viewing window to each side as well as a flat glass panel to the front and back. Both the front and back door locks also work. There is then a further thin moulding to the base leading to the "belled" out section. There is then a further, final moulding leading to the square base which is then finished by four, thin square feet. The dial is then silvered and set out in black Roman numerals with a thin ring to the outside marking the minutes. The corners of the dial are then engraved with intricate, scrolling patterns. The dial is then finished by two lovely shaped hands as well as a protective glass with a lovely metal frame to the inside. The movement is then wound from the front and accessed from the back. It is ticking away as it should and comes complete with its regulating pendulum and winding key. The mov...
