Description

A truly spectacular 19th century bentwood hat/coat/stick/umbrella stand fit for a fine city dwelling, a grand country house, or a hotel/restaurant. Of large and impressive proportions, standing at 2150mm high, this beautiful example consists of an incredibly elaborate base with multiple scrolling supports and two retaining rings for sticks and umbrellas. It has a central cluster column with eight S-scroll hat & coat hooks all surmounted by a well-turned decorative finial. Not stamped, but easily attributable to the Rolls Royce manufacturer of bentwood hall stands Thonet, this is the finest example we've seen in over thirty years. It dates from the late 19th century, c.1890.
