Description

A fine quality and attractive small antique late Victorian mahogany inlaid armchair dating from circa 1900. The back splat is carved and pierced and inlaid with a neo-classical marquetry design of an urn and swags. The arched top rail is carved and decorated with stringing. With curved arms and standing on tapering legs terminating in spade feet. The fabric is in good condition (a few small marks to fabric) however the webbing underneath has sagged somewhat. This is quite a low chair so would make an ideal dressing table chair or bedroom or nursing chair. Construction/Wood: Mahogany Condition Report: Good condition. Solid and sturdy. Beautiful patina and figuring. The fabric is in good condition (a few small marks) however the webbing underneath has sagged somewhat. Dimensions: Max Width: 52cm Depth: 50cm Height to Seat: 36cm Height to Arms: 57cm Height: 84cm
