Description

A good example of a small oak dresser base dating from the late 18th / early 19th century. There are three drawers above a planked potboard base. Each drawer has a brass plate handle and the dresser stands on small bracket feet. It is a lovely small size and excellent quality with lots of character. It is in good condition throughout. It is not without some signs of age and use and some light marks and old stains on the surface but this has all helped to develop a beautiful rich patina over the years. There are some minor old shrinkage splits on the top but the whole piece is strong and sturdy. The drawers are generally clean and tidy and all open smoothly. It has been given a clean and gentle polish and is ready for use. The best description comes from the photos so please look at them all carefully and if you have any questions just ask.
