Description

An unusual pair of 19th-century gold earrings, each suspending four tiny coral balls and a carved coral bell. The coral is a deep salmon colour (looks a little more red in the photographs) which contrasts beautifully with the high-carat gold. The earring wires are 18-carat gold, the delicately chased spheres and intricate drops are 15-carat gold. • Condition: The earrings are in excellent antique condition. • Fixing: Gold ear wires; supplied with tiny silicone keepers which you can pop over the wires for security. • Era: Victorian. • Size: Approximately 3.9 x 0.7cm. • Weight: 2.8g.
