Description

An elegant French Grand Tour bronze figure of Aristotle, dating from the early 19th Century. The robed bearded philosopher is holding a stylus and a scroll and turning ad sinistram, while seated on a pedestal ornamented with anthemion relief castings, and riased on a stepped Ashburton marble plinth. Add a beautiful classical element to your home with this delightful bronze. Provenance: The Christopher Hodsoll Collection. Condition: In excellent condition, please see photos for confirmation. Dimensions in cm: Height 37 x Width 35 x Depth 21. Dimensions in inches: Height 1 foot, 3 inches x Width 1 foot, 2 inches x Depth 8 inches. Aristotle 384-322BC is remembered as the founder of the Lyceum, the Peripatetic School and, of course the Aristotelian tradition of Philosophy. He was taught by Plato. He is described as a towering figure in ancient Greek philosophy: a polymath, who made important contributions to logic, criticism, rhetoric, physics, biology, psychology, mathematics, metaphysics, ethics, and politics.
