Description

Georgian oak pot board dresser base. This Georgian oak pot board dresser base was made circa 1820. It has 2 drawers to each side of the central drawer. There is an attractive apron below the central drawer and with matching shaping below the drawers at each side. The drawers all with the matching plate brass backplates and swing handles. The pot board with the multiple hand sawn boards laid from the front to the rear rather than just one long plank under. The base is joined by the finely turned front legs. This dresser is a good width and not too deep and so makes a brilliant piece of furniture to fit in many places around your home. Imagine this oak dresser base that is not only very attractive but also gives you plenty of storage and display space. It is bound to give you much pleasure and joy as it gets admired by your family and friends.
