Description

Early to mid 18th century oak two part hanging press cupboard. The base section with three "dummy" drawers across the top with two over 1 proper drawers beneath. The drawers with cock beaded edges and pine linings. The oval brass handles are period late 18th century ones but are not original. The top section has two panelled doors with nice shaping to the top with dentil moulded cornice. The press has a later brass hanging bar across the inside as well as all the original shaped oak hanging pegs. The whole piece is a lovely colour with waxed finish. Please note it is not quite as light in colour as the pictures suggest, it was in a difficult place to photograph with the daylight coming in the door. SIZE; 53" wide by 22" deep by 77" tall CIRCA; 1720 - 1740
