Description

A lovely boat-shaped Victorian opal dress ring rendered in high-carat yellow gold. The rich golden colour typical of 18 carat beautifully complements the opals, which have a fantastic moonstone-like glowing quality with an interplay of primarily turquoise and violet tones. Two pairs of sparkling round hand-cut diamonds (each approx 1mm in diameter) are displayed between the three oval cabochon opals above a decorative pierced gallery. The central opal measures 4.5 x 5mm, with the two flanking opals approx 4.5 x 3.5mm. The interior of the shank is hallmarked for 18-carat gold. The date letter b indicates 1897 or 1901 but part of the hallmark has disappeared where the ring has previously been resized so it's not possible to be sure which year is correct. Size: R (UK), approximately 8.5 (US). The gem-set face of the ring measures around 1.5 x 0.6cm and it sits approx 0.5cm above the finger. Weight: 3.4g.
