Description

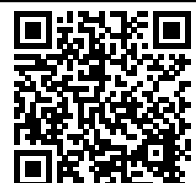

Frank Owen Salisbury 1874 -1962 " Friends" a Young Boy in Van Dyck dress holding his Cavalier King Charles Spaniel on the reverse "Friends" oil on canvas 75 x 60 cm Provenance From the artists estate Notes Frank Owen Salisbury was a well known and much admired artist in the early 20th century, It is for portraiture that he is best known. His speed in producing portraits stemmed from his painting his own twin daughters every morning for an hour and his career began with child portraiture and his painting the Hertfordshire gentry and members of the Harpenden Methodist Church. He had a studio at his home, Sarum Chase. This portrait of a young boy in Vandyck Dress pays homage to Sir Joshua Reynolds who also painted children and in partucular children with their dogs. Artist biography Francis Owen Salisbury (18 December 1874 – 31 August 1962) was an English artist who specialised in portraits, large canvases of historical and ceremonial events, stained glass and book illustration. In his heyday he made a fortune on both sides of the Atlantic and was known as "Britain's Painter Laureate". His art was steadfastly conservative and he was a vitriolic critic of Modern Art – p...
