Description

Very good quality and elegant Regency mahogany and brass strung fusee drop dial wall clock by Thomas Kellitt of Thorne (South Yorkshire), circa 1820. 8 day fusee movement with a "passing strike" so it strikes once on every hour only and being wire driven it will keep very accurate time throughout the 8 days. Octagonal case with a beaded edge, bow glass in original cast bezel and fan shaped spandrels. The movement is in good working order. Measuring: Height is 27 1/2 inches or 70cm Width is 17 inches or 43.5cm Dial diameter is 12 inches Depth is 6 inches or 15cm
