Description

A beautiful antique mahogany stool dating from the mid 19th Century. The stool is excellent quality with a simple yet elegant design, standing on four turned legs joined by an X-shaped stretcher with a central turned finial. The drop-in seat pad has been freshly covered in a good quality blue/green velvet that compliments the stool. It is in very good condition for its age. The upholstery is clean and tidy and the wood has a beautiful rich colour and has been waxed to retain its natural aged patina. There are some minor signs of age and use but the frame is free from any major knocks or damages and is overall a good sturdy construction. It displays beautifully and is ready for use. The best description comes from the photos so please look at them all carefully and if you have any questions just ask. Nationwide delivery available through our network of reliable couriers.
