Description

Large Antique Double Chain Fusee Five Glass Library Clock By Barwise London. This Stunning antique Library clock has an extremely large case that isn't often seen in Library clocks. It is an ebonised case and starts at the top with a thick bevelled glass panel leading to a moulding around the top edge. The body of the case is then square with two more thick, bevelled glass panels to the sides as well as glass to the front and back so that the movement and dial can be fully seen. There is then a lovely "belled out" section which is typically seen on library clocks and gives the piece a fantastic look. There is then a further shaped moulding leading to the base which is finished by four thin, square feet. The dial is then painted and set out in black Roman numerals with a thin ring to the outside marking the minutes. The dial is then signed by the maker to the centre "Barwise LONDON". The dial then sits in a beautiful gilt surround which is engraved with lovely scrolling patterns. Finally the dial is finished by two beautiful shaped hands. The movement is then wound from the front and accessed from the back. It is a stunning double chain fusee example of the upmost q...
