This is a fine quality antique English 18th century twin panel Georgian oak coffer, retaining its original owners' initials and construction date, displaying a stunning colour, circa 1720, in good original condition. The Georgian oak coffer is constructed with a solid oak twin-panel top, with a joined section below, which is constructed with butt joints to the corners, secured by traditional peg dowels. The lid opens on the original iron butterfly hinges to reveal a spacious interior. The interior is clean, dry and practical & usable, retaining its original floor-boards. The Georgian oak coffer also incorporates a working steel lock a...
