Description

An exquisite antique Scottish brooch made during the mid Victorian era (Circa 1860). It's modelled in silver and has a wonderful spiralling design with six colourful agates inlaid around each curved loop. Scottish jewellery grew in popularity in the mid- 1800s as Queen Victoria's frequent trips to her Scottish Castle Balmoral saw her return with Scottish souvenirs and jewellery which influenced the trend in Britain. It's a great collector's piece and a beautiful antique treasure. Weighs: 8 grams Measures: 42mm across x 30mm down Age: Victorian. (Circa 1850 – 1870) Condition: Good - Some wear to the settings and the engraving has faded a little over time. ITEM NUMBER: 8480

Internal Ref: 8480
