Description

A set of four Regency period reverse glass engravings, each depicting allegorical scenes of mother and child, to include fruit-pickers and harvest time. In original burr walnut frames. One engraving has an old repair to the glass which has been done professionally. It isn't obvious and not noticeable when hung altogether. These are really good decorating items. There will be a small charge for packing and delivery on the UK Mainland and we can calculate the cost of International delivery. Payment by bank transfer, Paypal or card via telephone
