Description

Country House Georgian Antique Side Table / Tea Table Dating from ca.1800 this Country House early 19th century Georgian Antique Side Table / Tea Table is very unusual as it is made from Oak and Mahogany. It has a beautifully figured D shaped top with rounded corners. It has an oak centre with Mahogany cross banding and Rosewood banded edge along with boxwood string inlay. Below is a deep apron with fine boxwood string inlay. The legs to the rear open using a 'gate leg' action to fully support the opened top. The piece then becomes the ideal tea table / games table / small dining table. This fine Georgian antique table stands on turned reeded legs in the Gillows design and the piece comes with lots of lovely charm and character. The has aged to a warm medium mahogany with a striking grain, good patina, is in very good condition and has been beautifully cleaned using a traditional form of furniture wax finishing.
