Description

A fine small English dial clock, the unusually small 7inch dial hides a good quality substantial single fusee chain wound, eight day movement with four turned cannon pillars. Housed in a mahogany dial surround and box with brass bezel. The cream painted Roman dial having original spade and pointer hands. Circa 1830 The usual size of this clock and high quality movement makes this dial clock a cut above the usual. This clock is shown unserviced, but will be fully overhauled and comes with our two year guarantee at point of sale.
