Description

A pair of Edwardian two tier side tables in yew wood, each with a rectangular top with quarter veneering within crossbanded border and a reeded edge, over shaped frieze and repeated below, separated by slender turned balusters and on turned supports with brass castors. English circa 1910. Condition: Excellent, both tables are in very good condition and solid and robust, the casters all run freely, the structure of each is sound, and they both have a lovely warm colour and silky feel associated with yew.
