Description

This is an antique adjustable pole screen. An English, rosewood and needlepoint fireside shield, dating to the Regency period, circa 1820. Delightful Regency period craftsmanship for the fireside. Displaying a desirable aged patina and in very good order. Select stocks show fine grain interest and deep russet hues. Charming needlepoint presented behind a clear, bright glass plate. Slender pole topped with a small carved finial. Accentuated square frame with dashing shell carvings to corners. Panel embroidered with a bird of paradise realised in brushed fabric. Dressed to rear gold with brocade trim. Adjustable screen offering a range of 77cm (30.25"). Raised upon a bold, gadrooned baluster column. Striking tri-point base shows superb figuring. Standing upon a trio of distinctive scrolled bracket toes. This is a wonderful antique adjustable pole screen with quality stocks and charming needlepoint panel. Delivered waxed, polished and ready for the fireside.
