Description

Victorian burr walnut housekeeper's cupboard This fine Victorian burr walnut dwarf housekeepers' cupboard was made circa 1860. It has a full chest of drawers at the centre, consisting of 2 half width drawers at the top and 4 full graduated drawers under. The drawers with their original solid walnut knob handles. To each side of the centre chest are cupboards, one fitted with multiple linen slides, the other cupboard with shelves, again both doors are fitted with their original turned walnut knob handles, that operate the door catches. The one-piece top (that lifts off for transport) has fine selected burr walnut. This would have been made for a very wealthy client as this would have been at the top end of the price bracket when it was made. Imagine how much you can store in this fantastic item of furniture. Not only is it wonderful to look at but it also provides vast storage space. You are sure to get many envious glances at this fine wardrobe, and it will give you great pleasure of ownership. It is easy to forget in these days of the diesel engine how much effort went into delivering a piece of furniture like this one in the 19thc. It would have taken hours if not da...
