

SA996958

Chelsea porcelain statuette
with the symbol of America, c.
1765.

Price

GBP 1,500

| USD $2,030 | EUR 1,755

Item Reference: SA996958

Date of manufacture: 18th Century

Dimensions

Height = 162 cm (63.8")

Description

Woman sitting on an alligator symbolising America. Based on a porcelain statuette from 1745 modeled by the artist J.J. Kendler (Meissen). The Chelsea Porcelain Factory was founded in 1743 by two Frenchmen: the jeweller Charles Guin and the silversmith Nicholas Sprimon. The Chelsea Porcelain Factory was the first important porcelain manufactory in England. Its early pieces of soft paste porcelain were intended for the aristocratic market. The height is 16.2 cm. width 21 cm. depth 12 cm. weight 839 grams Gold anchor symbol on the base Condition: Crack in the middle part of the wood, slight loss of gilding, otherwise perfect antique condition. Please view all pictures carefully. Item will be sent with full tracking and insurance. Please note that shipping costs include labour, packing and postage.

Seller Details

Gillers Antiques Ltd

Buckland House Buntingford Hertfordshire SG9 OPY United Kingdom

Tel: 07738 009924

International Tel: +44 7738 009924

