Description

An excellent George II walnut chair with cabriole legs and Chippendale influenced splat and top rail c.1750. This is a late example of the use of walnut, which was being replaced by the more fashionable mahogany at this time. The chair is in fine and fully usable condition ... sturdy and stable, as well as being elegant. Dimensions: 37 inches tall, 22 inches seat width, 18 inches deep. PROVENANCE: A long standing collection from Stirling House, Salisbury (Image 5)

Internal Ref: 9312
