Description

A pretty sterling silver brooch by the Adie and Lovekin company inlaid with polished slices of blue lace agate and featuring a realistic thistle with citrine paste top. Scottish jewellery was made fashionable by Queen Victoria from the mid 1800s when she and Prince Albert frequently visited Scotland and her Scottish castle Balmoral. She loved all things Scottish and spent much time in the Highlands and Cairngorm mountains where these Scottish pebble stones were collected. This brooch dates from after Victoria's era, and it is a style which has proved enduringly popular. This brooch is stamped with the ALLD sponsor's mark and has full hallmarks for sterling silver, Birmingham 1925. The piece is in very good antique/vintage condition and fastens with a typical C clasp. Size: Approximately 2.9 x 3cm. Weight: 4.8g. FREE INTERNATIONAL SHIPPING! Apologies but we cannot ship to Germany, any orders from Germany will be cancelled and refunded.
