Description

A beautiful pair of earrings from the late Victorian/early Edwardian period, c1900s, made during a time for Georgian revival jewels. The earrings are made from 9ct gold that has a very slight rosy tint to it and have pretty flat cut garnets set in closed back settings. The garnets are in a little sequence of one round, one oval and one pear and are a lovely deep red colour. The earrings are fairly lightweight making them very easy to wear and the hooks look to be a later addition. Overall, they are in very good order and look beautiful in the ear. Details: Materials - 9ct Gold (tested), Garnets Age - C1900s Size - The earrings measure approx 29mm long excluding the hook. Condition - Very good. Minor wear commensurate with age. Weight - 1.88g the pair
